

"THE STANDARD"
NEW OFFICES
Job printing of every description done in the very best style.
154 Calle Piedad

Teatro Colon
El Domingo 21 de Abril
GRAN CONCIERTO
Vocal e instrumental
Por el notable Violonista y Director de orquesta
PEDRO MELANI

Con el concurso de las Sras. Adelaida Allan, Agustina Gabrielli y Eugenia Albarrá, y de los Señores Baranowski, Montenegro, Gato, Tafforelli, Panizza y Prospero, que graciosamente se prestan.
Las localidades se venden en la boletería del Teatro y en el Almacén de Música del Sr. Rodríguez, Calle Florida 138.
A las 8 1/2

Teatro de Variedades
Compañía Lírica y Dramática Francesa.

Sábado 23 Abril,
Les Mosqueteraires au Couvent
Opera comique en 3 actos, musique de Varney. Prix de coutume.

Exposición Italiana
Cerrito ent, Arenales y Juncal

SABADO 20 DE ABRIL
GRAN CONCIERTO DE MUSICA SAGRADA
Con el concurso del Sr. DEL PONTE.
Dirigido por el Profesor EMILIO RAMBARI.
Entrada libre.

DEUTSCHE Sing - Academie.

Am Freitag d. 22. April 1881
CHOR-PROBE IM COLISEUM
DER VORSTAND
e 194 a22

English Literary Society

The First Meeting of the new Session will be held on SAUNDAY 23rd INST.
SHAKESPEARE'S ANNIVERSARY
In the Society's Reading Room, at 8 p.m., when the following papers will be read:
1 "The Home of Shakespeare" (As visited in July 1880)
Mr. W. MARTIN

2 "Shakespeare in B. Aires" (Prof. A. PARRINELLO)

3 "Shakespeare's influence on our language and Social Life." (Prof. G. J. RYAN) (For members only). e 209 a22

Telegrafo Trasandino.

Aviame a los Sres. Accionistas que el Lunes 25 del corriente empezaremos a pagar el 15° dividendo de oro $1 50 por accion.
Countri de 15 a 2 1/2 de la tarde.
ALEJO MADERNA y CIA.
Agentes, Artes 38
e 214 a24

General Brown Club.

The members of the Provisional Committee are requested to meet this evening at 8 o'clock in Calle Charca 293.
e 215 a21

British Hospital.

The annual General Meeting of Subscribers to the above institution, for the purpose of receiving the Report for 1880 and transacting other business, will be held at the British Consulate on Friday, 29th inst., at 2 p.m.
By order of the Committee.
N. BOWEN, Hon. Sec.
e 158 a22

For New York

The A. I. American Brigantine HARRY SMITH
Will load for the above mentioned port. For freight etc. apply to HENRY TAY,
J. A. MACLEAN, SHIPBROKERS,
Calle 26 de Mayo No. 70.
e 190 m20

van Gelderen y Trant
Traductores Publicos
Se han mudado al
108 - PIEDAD - 108

1,000 BONNETS

Mme ROYERE,
350-Piedad-350
This well-known house, with which no other can compete in this branch, informs its numerous customers that it has just received 1,000 Bonnets and 5,000 hats for young ladies of the latest fashion, a very elegant and select assortment.

2,000 Hats for Girls.
e 224 m2

To Estancieros

An English painter is open to an engagement in the camp to paint estancias etc. He understands his work perfectly. Distance no objection. Apply Painter, 393 Esmeralda, personally or by letter.
e 259 m2

A Good Investment. 1 league of land for sale near 146, a little to the N. W. of land recently sold by this province at from $90,000 to $100,000. Price $90,000 m/c. Enquire at Central Land Office
68-Piedad-68
e 226 a20

TO LET—A large house with quinta, Calle Ascension No. 291, between Cordoba and Paraguay, 75 square from the tramway of Calle Santa Fe and half a square from Boulevard Cordoba. The house contains 11 fine rooms, with boarded floors and shuco ceiling, three upstairs rooms for servants, three large patios with shrubs and algae, pipes communicating with the kitchen and bath-room, the water lifted by a Noia to the quinta; 17 varas frontage by 80 in depth. For further information apply at No. 290 Calle Arica, at any hour.
e 224 m2

TO RENT, for Horse and Cattle, a Potrero of 1200 square of land, 2 leagues South of Chicomilla, well-fenced, with abundance of pasture and permanent water. Apply 180 Rivadavia, or to Mr. A. L. Chacon.
e 226 a20

WANTED by a married couple, without children, a situation in camp or town. The man for any work and the woman for Cook or Housekeeper. Apply G. R. L. at office.
e 292 a24

LETTERS LYING AT THIS OFFICE
Miss Mary E. Bryan
Mr. W. Bruce
Mr. Alfred Harford
Miss Mari Bonan
Nicolas Parlo
e 226 a20

Royal Mail Steam Packet Company

FOR ANTWERP

The Company's well-known steamer
GUADIANA
Commander T. LAWSON
2,500 Tons, 400 Horse-power.

To sail on the May 8th
Taking cargo and passengers for
VIGO, SOUTHAMPTON and ANTWERP
NOT CALLING AT BRAZILIAN PORTS

FOR ANTWERP,

The Company's splendid and favorably known steamer
ELBE
Commander A. HART DYKE
3,063 Tons, 600 Horsepower
Will sail on the May 15th

Taking cargo and passengers for
RIO JANEIRO
BAHIA
PERNAMBUCO
LISBON
SOUTHAMPTON
and ANTWERP

THROUGH PASSENGERS TO PARIS (single and return) granted by all the ROYAL MAIL steamers.

The above steamers will carry 1st, 2nd, and 3rd class passengers at REDUCED RATES
Mails, Specie, Cargo and Parcels to all the above ports and

THROUGH TICKETS
Are granted to Antwerp, Havre, Cherbourg and principal towns in Spain and Portugal.
These steamers are provided with every accommodation for carrying passengers, and table-wine is given to all classes.

RETURN TICKETS
Are granted to 1st class passengers with deduction of 25 o/o on passage money.
FAMILIES AND COMPANIES
A considerable reduction is made in their favor.

Persons wishing to bring out their friends from Europe can arrange with the Company's agent on reasonable terms.
For further particulars apply to the Agent
HENRY A. GREEN, Or to
HENRY L. GREEN, Broker,
175—Ricoquista—175

L'pool Brazil and R.P. Steamers

LAMPORT & HOLT'S LINE
Departures from Buenos Ayres.

ANTWERP & LIVERPOOL
(direct)
VANDYCK (direct) APRIL 26
(Loading in the River Parana)

HAVRE
(direct)
ROSSE (direct) MAY 1
(Carrying the Belgian Mail)

ANTWERP & LIVERPOOL
(Unit 3)
ARCHIMED (Unit 3) MAY 8
(Loading in the River Parana)

ANTWERP & LIVERPOOL
(Via Rio Janeiro, Lisbon and Southampton)
GALLIE (Unit 1) MAY 1
(Carrying the Belgian Mail)

Cargo and passengers for New York will be taken by the Steamers leaving this Port on the 1st and 15th of each month, via Rio Janeiro, first and second class passengers to Brazilian Ports, New York, Havre, Antwerp and towns in Great Britain, at reduced rates.

Tickets at reduced rates by steamers not carrying mails, and reductions made in favor of Families and Companies.
First class return-tickets, available for 12 months, at a reduction of one fourth.
Trepid Passages issued at reduced rates to those wishing to bring out friends.
These steamers carry surgeons and stewardesses.

Specie and Parcels received at the brokers' office till noon on day of sailing.
Insurances effected if desired.

E. Norton & Co.,
209 Recoquista, Agents
Rosario, Agents—JOHN THOMPSON & Co

J. B. GAHAN
General Broker and Commission Agent.

ON SALE.
1—Camp in Tres Arroyos (several lots) Since Cortes Guaranini, Arroyo de las Montañas, Bahia Blanca, Chivilcoy, Chacabuco, Lincoln, 25 de Mayo, and Las Flores.

2—Agent for Linck's colored Extract of tobacco (South Down Sheep Wash) and all other approved specities.
3—Coke, Wines and Foreign liquors.
75—CALLE RECONQUISTA—75
e 220 xp

Dr. Leopold del Campo
LAWYER
Calle de Bolívar No. 100.
AB30

HIPPARCLOS—Ha terminado en desahogo en los depósitos del Norte. e 223 a24

WANTED to purchase a good, solid leather Portmanteau, state size and lowest price. Address O. H. Harold's office.
e 225 a24

Warrington, England, Feb. 2d. 1881

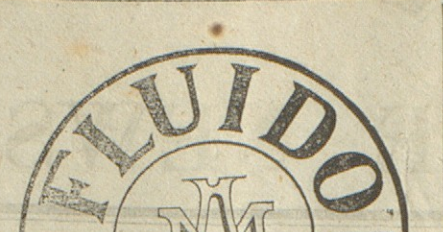

To
MESSRS THOMAS DRYSDALE AND CO.

96 Moreno, Buenos Aires

We hereby give notice that after the first day of April 1881 Messrs Thomas Drysdale & Co. of Buenos Aires are the only persons authorized to sell our various descriptions of wire in the Argentine Republic.

We have appointed Messrs Thomas Drysdale & Co. the sole importers of our wire in order to protect the Consumers of the Argentine Republic against the misrepresentations and actions of unprincipled importers of inferior qualities of wire.

Ryland Brothers, (Limited)
e 2345 m1

FLUIDO CREOSOTE

Unsurpassed for

Strength and Efficiency Contains over 92 per cent.
of ACTIVE CURING PROPERTIES.

Price $35 m/c. per gallon.

V. Casares & Sons
Corralon 11 de Septiembre and Boca. e 195 f23

The Blagden Dip
(FLUIDO BLAGDEN)

MARCA DEL SOL
JEYES
REGISTRADA

Manufactured by Jeyes Sanitary Compounds Co., Limited

The cheapest and most effective cure for scab on sheep. It is guaranteed free from poison, contains eighty p. cent of active ingredients and may be mixed with 100 parts of cold water.

Sole Agents
Thomas Blagden & Co.
126—Rivadavia—126

RESISTENCIA 2136 lbs.
Garantizado el de mayor resistencia que se introdujo en el país.
JOSÉ BEL HILLOS
297—Defensa—297
e 228 m2

BAZAR INGLÉS
100 FLORIDA 1881
CRISIMONS & CIA

ENGLISH GLASS
ENGLISH TOILET SETS
OIL CLOTHS
FLOWER VASES
on heavy Mirrors.
CUT MIRROR WALL BRACKETS
DUPLEX LAMPS
TOBACCO JARS and CIGARETTE COCKTAIL MACHINES.

TEA
At $12 per lb.
At 10 do
At 8 do
At 6 do
At 4 do
At 2 do
At 1 do
At 1/2 do
At 1/4 do
At 1/8 do
At 1/16 do
At 1/32 do
At 1/64 do
At 1/128 do
At 1/256 do
At 1/512 do
At 1/1024 do
At 1/2048 do
At 1/4096 do
At 1/8192 do
At 1/16384 do
At 1/32768 do
At 1/65536 do
At 1/131072 do
At 1/262144 do
At 1/524288 do
At 1/1048576 do
At 1/2097152 do
At 1/4194304 do
At 1/8388608 do
At 1/16777216 do
At 1/33554432 do
At 1/67108864 do
At 1/134217728 do
At 1/268435456 do
At 1/536870912 do
At 1/1073741824 do
At 1/2147483648 do
At 1/4294967296 do
At 1/8589934592 do
At 1/17179869184 do
At 1/34359738368 do
At 1/68719476736 do
At 1/137438953472 do
At 1/274877906944 do
At 1/549755813888 do
At 1/1099511627776 do
At 1/2199023255552 do
At 1/4398046511104 do
At 1/8796093022208 do
At 1/17592186044416 do
At 1/35184372088832 do
At 1/70368744177664 do
At 1/140737488355328 do
At 1/281474976710656 do
At 1/562949953421312 do
At 1/1125899906842624 do
At 1/2251799813685248 do
At 1/4503599627370496 do
At 1/9007199254740992 do
At 1/18014398509481984 do
At 1/36028797018963968 do
At 1/72057594037927936 do
At 1/144115188075855872 do
At 1/288230376151711744 do
At 1/576460752303423488 do
At 1/1152921504606846976 do
At 1/2305843009213693952 do
At 1/4611686018427387904 do
At 1/9223372036854775808 do
At 1/18446744073709551616 do
At 1/36893488147419103232 do
At 1/73786976294838206464 do
At 1/147573952589676412928 do
At 1/295147905179352825856 do
At 1/590295810358705651712 do
At 1/1180591620717411303424 do
At 1/2361183241434822606848 do
At 1/4722366482869645213696 do
At 1/9444732965739290427392 do
At 1/18889465931478580854784 do
At 1/37778931862957161709568 do
At 1/75557863725914323419136 do
At 1/151115727451828646838272 do
At 1/302231454903657293676544 do
At 1/604462909807314587353088 do
At 1/1208925819614629174706176 do
At 1/2417851639229258349412352 do
At 1/4835703278458516698824704 do
At 1/9671406556917033397649408 do
At 1/19342813113834066795298816 do
At 1/38685626227668133590597632 do
At 1/77371252455336267181195264 do
At 1/154742504910672534362390528 do
At 1/309485009821345068724781056 do
At 1/618970019642690137449562112 do
At 1/1237940039285380274899242224 do
At 1/2475880078570760549798484448 do
At 1/4951760157141521099596968896 do
At 1/9903520314283042199193937792 do
At 1/19807040628566084398387875584 do
At 1/39614081257132168796775751168 do
At 1/79228162514264337593551502336 do
At 1/158456325028528675187103004672 do
At 1/316912650057057350374206009344 do
At 1/633825300114114700748412018688 do
At 1/1267650600228229401496824037376 do
At 1/2535301200456458802993648074752 do
At 1/5070602400912917605987296149504 do
At 1/10141204801825835211974592299008 do
At 1/20282409603651670423949184598016 do
At 1/40564819207303340847898369196032 do
At 1/81129638414606681695796738392064 do
At 1/162259276829213363391593476784128 do
At 1/324518553658426726783186953568256 do
At 1/649037107316853453566373907136512 do
At 1/1298074214633706907132747814270224 do
At 1/2596148429267413814265495628540448 do
At 1/5192296858534827628530991257080896 do
At 1/1038459371706965525706198251416192 do
At 1/2076918743413931051412396502832384 do
At 1/4153837486827862102824793005664768 do
At 1/8307674973655724205649586011329536 do
At 1/16615349947311448411299172022659072 do
At 1/33230699894622896822598344045318144 do
At 1/66461399789245793645196688090636288 do
At 1/132922799578491587290393376181272576 do
At 1/265845599156983174580786752362545152 do
At 1/531691198313966349161573504725090304 do
At 1/1063382396627932698323147009450180608 do
At 1/2126764793255865396646294018900361216 do
At 1/4253529586511730793292588037800722432 do
At 1/8507059173023461586585176075601444864 do
At 1/17014118346046923173171352151202889728 do
At 1/34028236692093846346342704302405779456 do
At 1/68056473384187692692685408604811558912 do
At 1/136112946768375385385370817209623117824 do
At 1/272225893536750770770741634419246235648 do
At 1/54445178707350154154148326883849247129296 do
At 1/1088903574147003083082966537676964942557952 do
At 1/217780714829400616616593307535392988111584 do
At 1/435561429658801233233186615070785977223168 do
At 1/871122859317602466466373230141571954446336 do
At 1/1742245718635204932932746602831438908872672 do
At 1/348449143727040986586549320566287781774544 do
At 1/696898287454081973173098641132575563549088 do
At 1/1393796574908163946346197282265151127098176 do
At 1/2787593149816327892692394564530302254196352 do
At 1/5575186299632655785384789129060604508392704 do
At 1/1115037259926531157076957825812120901785408 do
At 1/2230074519853062314153915751624241803570816 do
At 1/4460149039706124628307831503248483607141728 do
At 1/8920298079412249256615663006496967214283456 do
At 1/17840596158824498513231326012993934428567104 do
At 1/3568119231764899702646265202598786885713408 do
At 1/7136238463529799405292530405197573771426816 do
At 1/14272476927059598810585060810391147542853632 do
At 1/28544953854119197621170121620782295085706656 do
At 1/5708990770823839524234024324156459017141312 do
At 1/11417981541647679048468048648312918028282624 do
At 1/22835963083295358096936097296625836056565248 do
At 1/45671926166590716193872194593251672113130496 do
At 1/91343852333181432387744389186503344226260992 do
At 1/182687704666362864775488778373006688452521984 do
At 1/365375409332725729550977556746013376905043808 do
At 1/730750818665451459101955113492026753810087616 do
At 1/1461501637330902918203910226984053507620175232 do
At 1/2923003274661805836407820453968107015240350464 do
At 1/5846006549323611672815640907936214030480700928 do
At 1/116920130986472233456312818158724280601601856 do
At 1/233840261972944466912625636317448561202203712 do
At 1/467680523945888933825251272634897122404407424 do
At 1/935361047891777867650502545269794244808814848 do
At 1/187072209578355573530100509053958848961769696 do
At 1/37414441915671114706020101810791769793339392 do
At 1/74828883831342229412040203621583539586678784 do
At 1/14965776766268457882408040724367079117337568 do
At 1/29931553532536915764816081448734158234675136 do
At 1/59863107065073831529632162897468316469350272 do
At 1/119726214130147663059264325794936732938700544 do
At 1/239452428260295326118528651589873465876401088 do
At 1/4789048565205906522370573031797469317752802176 do
At 1/9578097130411813044741146063594938635505604352 do
At 1/1915619426082362608948229212789877727101120864 do
At 1/383123885216

bits had been covered by subscription from member Vestry and a few at this date, April 19th, as free from all debt.

in the general fund was the treasurer to be paid to the falling off in the which had decreased the last two years.

out how important an story is to the church that there is no En- rant from Government, but only a little more est could be awakened worshippers contribute tions, these deficits and to appeal to the liberal- ridal members of the would soon disappear.

stered vestrymen re- the accounts and not- able falling off in it was again shown shippers would only all sum regularly, the would, with the sufficient to cover all uses. ners were approved and a cordial vote of the Treasurer for his gement and liberal church was carried ication was receiv- English Episcopal ang Fund Committees, discussion a resolution at the Select Vestry to accept the transfer papers and funds of Building Fund Com- mitted specified condi- as to accept similar nations with similar auditions attached, or it they deem it ad-of the (Select Vestry year was then pro- the following gentle- B. Perry, Churchwarden. J. Neill, Kyle, out Vestrymen nominated Mr. or as his church-of the meeting were sly accorded to the the choir and to the and teachers of the anks to the reverend inated the pro- S DAUGHTER, the Nation.) y, the remains of Mar- de Reincke, youngest immortal Argentine Brown, were interred Cemetery; she died

When the majes- tant falls, its offshoots in following to earth gave them life.

de Reincke inherited and always pre- of religious venera- mory.

community was re- the funeral by many general members. The general of the Navy ation of superior of- it, accompanied by tranza, who, with in- has collected the naval glories, and initiators of the move- strate to the veteran for so many years and the pride of Ar-friend delivered an over Mrs Reincke's tion to the mys- that, on the very the father won one for was born; and er without seeing the statue she so long-to the ashes of Ad- daughter of Admiral

MR. VAUGHAN. eaving give our eautiful let- Dillon to the Rev. the occasion of his the Dean's ser- shared by all who of Father Vaug- or acquaintance.

s, April 19th 1881. Vaughan sers being edified by coming the Great unted many diffi- heart has never confidence in God re- under every ad- e said, Dominus e talas mea quem God bless you who co-operate to the out- heaped on the bid- eucharist, the God

Can be used with COLD WATER. Sole Agents MOORE & TUDOR. Maypu 95 and 127. Beware of imitations and falsification

THE STANDARD—FRIDAY, APRIL 22, 1881

The House of Expiation will be a monument of the zeal of one whose family has already done so much for Holy Church, and God's Divine worship. You will prove, as Bishop Hedley said of your late sainted Father, 'true in life, and true in death.'

God bless the Work of Expiation. Monseñor Dillon. Dean of B. Ayres.

LATEST FROM THE CAPE.

Although the Boer war is, happily, over, the following late news from a Cape paper will be interesting, as showing the state of public opinion there, which apparently did not anticipate so speedily an end of the struggle. The British troops had, evidently, more enemies than the Boers to contend with, and had to work like convicts as well as fight.

Natal. The Transvaal war is still the only topic people talk about. As there are no newspapers anywhere out of Maritzburg and Durban, we up-country people have to pay for private telegrams at the 'nearest station' or listen to all sorts of wild rumours until the infrequent post arrives, although one hardly knows whether the arrival of newspapers makes things any better. There is only one paper, the Witness, nine out of ten people really care to see, however much they may abuse it. Sometimes, however, we do succeed in hearing the truth in spite of the most persistent efforts to suppress it.

It is now quite an admitted fact that the Boer loss at Lange's Nek was very much smaller than was stated at first, owing to their advantageous position and the deadly accuracy of their rifles. I have heard it, on very good authority, that the Boer force actually engaged was no larger than about 200, only 2 field cornets with their men taking part. The main commands under P. Joubert arrived just when the truce for removing the wounded had been granted. The Boers were, in fact, taken by surprise, as they did not expect General Colley would advance to the Nek before more reinforcements had arrived. I state this, not because I think many of our readers will admit it, but because I hope some few in authority will be set thinking about the serious nature of the war, and that the foolishness of sending up small bodies of men from Maritzburg will not be persisted in.

Three days ago I met a body of Hussars, amounting to perhaps 200 men, on their way to the front. They had been mounted at Ladysmith, and a more miserable lot of horses I never saw in my life. Some kept bucking, others looked as if they had just come out of a long campaign, and most of them were no more fit for carrying brave men just out from the Afghan war than they were for fitting an English race-course.

How long will such scandals be allowed to go on? How many more valuable lives are thus to be trifled with and fooled away? Besides having to ride bad horses, the troops have to work like convicts on the road. Between Ladysmith and Newcastle there are three rivers to cross, and these, in consequence of the late heavy rains, are impassable three or four days out of every seven. On the Klip River, there is a small ponton that can carry a loaded wagon. It is the same at the Sunday's River and the Ingagane, near Newcastle. The wagons have to be unloaded, and it takes a whole day's hard work to carry over the commissariat of a single regiment. The roads are in a dreadful state, and five hundred men at least ought to be employed in repairing them, instead of small parties of Kafirs, who take their own time. In the late war with Turkey the Russians were said to have suddenly found out that spades were sometimes taken to the front, and they immediately sent the army with bridges for the Danube. Natal is not an unknown country. Why, then, is there such mismanagement? During the Zulu war it is true the roads and rivers were all dry, but that was a time of great drought, and now we are only having the old-fashioned summer season.

The Dutch residents here feel the present state of the Transvaal most deeply, and they keep very quiet. A few may have gone over to assist the Boers, but I have not heard of any. In the Free State it is certain that very little is required to set the whole country on fire. The fight near Newcastle on Tuesday must have been very severe. Twice the Boers tried to take the guns and were beaten off. All the horses were shot, however, and the men had to pull the guns into camp during the night. It will be a dreadful war yet from what people who know tell me. Yesterday, I went out to farm under the Praksens, and heard that there was a commanding watching a pass close to the Free State, but whether there is any truth in this I can't say. It is certain that the Boers are preparing to contest the advance of troops at every place at which they tried an advance may possibly be tried.

The country remains beautiful, and there will probably be a good crop of meales, though the lands have suffered in some parts from too much rain. Fruit on some farms is abundant, and if it were not for the war everybody would, for a wonder, have been contented.

Aliwal North. The Governor's reply to the Basuto petition has produced an unfavourable impression in Basuto land. The Basutos say they don't know what is meant by endeavouring to obtain lenient and generous terms, and that they would wish to have something more definite. They say that they believe in the Governor's sincerity; but they do not think Mr Sprigg will be induced, after what the Government has said and done in reference to Basuto land, to treat justly and generously with them. They say, too, that it would appear that the reply is Mr Sprigg's, and not the Queen's, from whom they believe they will get justice. The Basutos say that they want peace, and that to those in whom they have confidence they will listen, but that the reply of the Governor is so worded, that anything might be done to them under it. The reply is regarded as unfortunate, and likely to tend to unite the Basutos more than ever in resisting.

MONTEVIDEO. Whilst the horizon of the Banda Oriental is as threatening as the advent of a 'pampero,' and a catastrophe seems imminent, many turn their anxious gaze on the prosperous sister republic in the emergency of the hour. The Oriental gazes with wonder at your smiling prospects and bitterly envies the fate that has borne you aloft through the vicissitudes of rebellion and political distrust. Argentines lie in the arms of prosperity, in spite of themselves: revolution and bad government have been unable to stifle the progress of the country. Your railways are being speedily extended to their natural terminus: productions increase with a never-falling flow of hardy immigrants: the animosity of party feeling has recovered the natural level of a logical opposition: reorganization in the army and the navy is the restless task of the Government: lands are increasing in value and your deserts are being populated: the army is conquering Patagonia from the Indians: new harbours are being traced: the Government, in fact, is doing its duty, and is proof against all attacks at home and against any aggression from abroad.

The contrast with the Banda Oriental could not be greater: blessed with as fine a climate, as hardy a race, and equal advantages in the shape of liberal Constitution, we lack the vitality which yet rears you on a par with the Great Republic of the North. The country only preserves its independence through the mutual jealousy of powerful neighbours, and its sons are striving hard to ruin all its prospects by fanning the blaze of dissension and letting loose the dogs of civil war: the commerce of the country is stationary, paralyzed in view of the threatening turn of events: the camp is a vast scene of violence and depredation, in several departments; in fact, political existence is at the mercy of the revolutionary articles in the papers. Too much liberty and too much despotism have done their worst: our prospects are as bleak as our past.

Political duty, nevertheless, is not blind to one fact, and that is, the safety your great prosperity engenders. Whilst Argentines are strong and prosperous, the Banda Oriental can afford the luxury of revolutions, but the day Argentine fortunes sink, the Uruguay may very probably cease to be the Brazilian colours will wave to the breeze on the Cerro, and the descendants of the Portuguese will rock the cradle of a future Rio Janeiro in a more favourable zone. This circumstance keeps Orientals awake, and they only foresee in the present approaching events a still greater blow to the finances and credit of the country. This probable mad outbreak will not entail the loss of independence, as both Argentines and Brazilians at present neutralize each other.

To-day more than ever we miss the benedict contact with the Argentine Republic. The history of the last 25 years proves the fallacy of generosity when nations draw up treaties regarding their own interests. Regarding, certainly, should have produced a more definite settlement than that which resulted from that memorable battle. The statesmen then lacked the brains to see into the probabilities of the future, and could not cast the horoscope of the future of the new independent Republic of Uruguay. Reconciliation always comes too late, and it would be too difficult an enterprise to make good the errors which have produced such a very fatal state of affairs. Had Ituzingoa sealed the Union of the Uruguay with the Argentine Republic, La Torre, Flores and Santos would never have predominated; but on the other hand, revolutions would not be at an end in the Argentine Republic, nor would the capital have been fixed in Buenos Ayres. Different situations bring on different results.

MONTEVIDEO.

Whilst the horizon of the Banda Oriental is as threatening as the advent of a 'pampero,' and a catastrophe seems imminent, many turn their anxious gaze on the prosperous sister republic in the emergency of the hour. The Oriental gazes with wonder at your smiling prospects and bitterly envies the fate that has borne you aloft through the vicissitudes of rebellion and political distrust. Argentines lie in the arms of prosperity, in spite of themselves: revolution and bad government have been unable to stifle the progress of the country. Your railways are being speedily extended to their natural terminus: productions increase with a never-falling flow of hardy immigrants: the animosity of party feeling has recovered the natural level of a logical opposition: reorganization in the army and the navy is the restless task of the Government: lands are increasing in value and your deserts are being populated: the army is conquering Patagonia from the Indians: new harbours are being traced: the Government, in fact, is doing its duty, and is proof against all attacks at home and against any aggression from abroad.

The contrast with the Banda Oriental could not be greater: blessed with as fine a climate, as hardy a race, and equal advantages in the shape of liberal Constitution, we lack the vitality which yet rears you on a par with the Great Republic of the North. The country only preserves its independence through the mutual jealousy of powerful neighbours, and its sons are striving hard to ruin all its prospects by fanning the blaze of dissension and letting loose the dogs of civil war: the commerce of the country is stationary, paralyzed in view of the threatening turn of events: the camp is a vast scene of violence and depredation, in several departments; in fact, political existence is at the mercy of the revolutionary articles in the papers. Too much liberty and too much despotism have done their worst: our prospects are as bleak as our past.

Political duty, nevertheless, is not blind to one fact, and that is, the safety your great prosperity engenders. Whilst Argentines are strong and prosperous, the Banda Oriental can afford the luxury of revolutions, but the day Argentine fortunes sink, the Uruguay may very probably cease to be the Brazilian colours will wave to the breeze on the Cerro, and the descendants of the Portuguese will rock the cradle of a future Rio Janeiro in a more favourable zone. This circumstance keeps Orientals awake, and they only foresee in the present approaching events a still greater blow to the finances and credit of the country. This probable mad outbreak will not entail the loss of independence, as both Argentines and Brazilians at present neutralize each other.

To-day more than ever we miss the benedict contact with the Argentine Republic. The history of the last 25 years proves the fallacy of generosity when nations draw up treaties regarding their own interests. Regarding, certainly, should have produced a more definite settlement than that which resulted from that memorable battle. The statesmen then lacked the brains to see into the probabilities of the future, and could not cast the horoscope of the future of the new independent Republic of Uruguay. Reconciliation always comes too late, and it would be too difficult an enterprise to make good the errors which have produced such a very fatal state of affairs. Had Ituzingoa sealed the Union of the Uruguay with the Argentine Republic, La Torre, Flores and Santos would never have predominated; but on the other hand, revolutions would not be at an end in the Argentine Republic, nor would the capital have been fixed in Buenos Ayres. Different situations bring on different results.

MONTEVIDEO.

Whilst the horizon of the Banda Oriental is as threatening as the advent of a 'pampero,' and a catastrophe seems imminent, many turn their anxious gaze on the prosperous sister republic in the emergency of the hour. The Oriental gazes with wonder at your smiling prospects and bitterly envies the fate that has borne you aloft through the vicissitudes of rebellion and political distrust. Argentines lie in the arms of prosperity, in spite of themselves: revolution and bad government have been unable to stifle the progress of the country. Your railways are being speedily extended to their natural terminus: productions increase with a never-falling flow of hardy immigrants: the animosity of party feeling has recovered the natural level of a logical opposition: reorganization in the army and the navy is the restless task of the Government: lands are increasing in value and your deserts are being populated: the army is conquering Patagonia from the Indians: new harbours are being traced: the Government, in fact, is doing its duty, and is proof against all attacks at home and against any aggression from abroad.

The contrast with the Banda Oriental could not be greater: blessed with as fine a climate, as hardy a race, and equal advantages in the shape of liberal Constitution, we lack the vitality which yet rears you on a par with the Great Republic of the North. The country only preserves its independence through the mutual jealousy of powerful neighbours, and its sons are striving hard to ruin all its prospects by fanning the blaze of dissension and letting loose the dogs of civil war: the commerce of the country is stationary, paralyzed in view of the threatening turn of events: the camp is a vast scene of violence and depredation, in several departments; in fact, political existence is at the mercy of the revolutionary articles in the papers. Too much liberty and too much despotism have done their worst: our prospects are as bleak as our past.

Political duty, nevertheless, is not blind to one fact, and that is, the safety your great prosperity engenders. Whilst Argentines are strong and prosperous, the Banda Oriental can afford the luxury of revolutions, but the day Argentine fortunes sink, the Uruguay may very probably cease to be the Brazilian colours will wave to the breeze on the Cerro, and the descendants of the Portuguese will rock the cradle of a future Rio Janeiro in a more favourable zone. This circumstance keeps Orientals awake, and they only foresee in the present approaching events a still greater blow to the finances and credit of the country. This probable mad outbreak will not entail the loss of independence, as both Argentines and Brazilians at present neutralize each other.

To-day more than ever we miss the benedict contact with the Argentine Republic. The history of the last 25 years proves the fallacy of generosity when nations draw up treaties regarding their own interests. Regarding, certainly, should have produced a more definite settlement than that which resulted from that memorable battle. The statesmen then lacked the brains to see into the probabilities of the future, and could not cast the horoscope of the future of the new independent Republic of Uruguay. Reconciliation always comes too late, and it would be too difficult an enterprise to make good the errors which have produced such a very fatal state of affairs. Had Ituzingoa sealed the Union of the Uruguay with the Argentine Republic, La Torre, Flores and Santos would never have predominated; but on the other hand, revolutions would not be at an end in the Argentine Republic, nor would the capital have been fixed in Buenos Ayres. Different situations bring on different results.

MONTEVIDEO.

Whilst the horizon of the Banda Oriental is as threatening as the advent of a 'pampero,' and a catastrophe seems imminent, many turn their anxious gaze on the prosperous sister republic in the emergency of the hour. The Oriental gazes with wonder at your smiling prospects and bitterly envies the fate that has borne you aloft through the vicissitudes of rebellion and political distrust. Argentines lie in the arms of prosperity, in spite of themselves: revolution and bad government have been unable to stifle the progress of the country. Your railways are being speedily extended to their natural terminus: productions increase with a never-falling flow of hardy immigrants: the animosity of party feeling has recovered the natural level of a logical opposition: reorganization in the army and the navy is the restless task of the Government: lands are increasing in value and your deserts are being populated: the army is conquering Patagonia from the Indians: new harbours are being traced: the Government, in fact, is doing its duty, and is proof against all attacks at home and against any aggression from abroad.

The contrast with the Banda Oriental could not be greater: blessed with as fine a climate, as hardy a race, and equal advantages in the shape of liberal Constitution, we lack the vitality which yet rears you on a par with the Great Republic of the North. The country only preserves its independence through the mutual jealousy of powerful neighbours, and its sons are striving hard to ruin all its prospects by fanning the blaze of dissension and letting loose the dogs of civil war: the commerce of the country is stationary, paralyzed in view of the threatening turn of events: the camp is a vast scene of violence and depredation, in several departments; in fact, political existence is at the mercy of the revolutionary articles in the papers. Too much liberty and too much despotism have done their worst: our prospects are as bleak as our past.

Political duty, nevertheless, is not blind to one fact, and that is, the safety your great prosperity engenders. Whilst Argentines are strong and prosperous, the Banda Oriental can afford the luxury of revolutions, but the day Argentine fortunes sink, the Uruguay may very probably cease to be the Brazilian colours will wave to the breeze on the Cerro, and the descendants of the Portuguese will rock the cradle of a future Rio Janeiro in a more favourable zone. This circumstance keeps Orientals awake, and they only foresee in the present approaching events a still greater blow to the finances and credit of the country. This probable mad outbreak will not entail the loss of independence, as both Argentines and Brazilians at present neutralize each other.

To-day more than ever we miss the benedict contact with the Argentine Republic. The history of the last 25 years proves the fallacy of generosity when nations draw up treaties regarding their own interests. Regarding, certainly, should have produced a more definite settlement than that which resulted from that memorable battle. The statesmen then lacked the brains to see into the probabilities of the future, and could not cast the horoscope of the future of the new independent Republic of Uruguay. Reconciliation always comes too late, and it would be too difficult an enterprise to make good the errors which have produced such a very fatal state of affairs. Had Ituzingoa sealed the Union of the Uruguay with the Argentine Republic, La Torre, Flores and Santos would never have predominated; but on the other hand, revolutions would not be at an end in the Argentine Republic, nor would the capital have been fixed in Buenos Ayres. Different situations bring on different results.

MONTEVIDEO.

Whilst the horizon of the Banda Oriental is as threatening as the advent of a 'pampero,' and a catastrophe seems imminent, many turn their anxious gaze on the prosperous sister republic in the emergency of the hour. The Oriental gazes with wonder at your smiling prospects and bitterly envies the fate that has borne you aloft through the vicissitudes of rebellion and political distrust. Argentines lie in the arms of prosperity, in spite of themselves: revolution and bad government have been unable to stifle the progress of the country. Your railways are being speedily extended to their natural terminus: productions increase with a never-falling flow of hardy immigrants: the animosity of party feeling has recovered the natural level of a logical opposition: reorganization in the army and the navy is the restless task of the Government: lands are increasing in value and your deserts are being populated: the army is conquering Patagonia from the Indians: new harbours are being traced: the Government, in fact, is doing its duty, and is proof against all attacks at home and against any aggression from abroad.

Nevertheless, if the Banda Oriental continues to vegetate in the present unsettled state, when a letter from Santos, a move in the barracks, or a whispered evolution of Latorre's creates a panic, sooner or later the country will merge into a mere province, more or less dependent if connected with Brazil or the River Plate. All ideas of Rio Grande or Entre Rios fusions are exploded, and the future is anything but promising to us, as we anxiously repose on the gunpowder barrel beneath our feet.

Colonel Santos has been heaping fuel on the fire by his untimely note to Latorre. What on earth moved him to beard the ex-Dictator, when he well knows that his only consolation lies in the No. 5 on his military kepi. There was no necessity of telling Latorre that the Government relied on means powerful enough to impede any invasion. Furthermore, the diplomatic allusion was uncalled for, and the Brazilian policy confession is another evidence of the weak-mindedness of the Minister. A fine Government is that which attempts to dissuade an individual from contempt of court by showing its policemen. Truly enough, Santos does not smack much of the statesman; his education may be that of a 'beast saute,' an amiable accomplishment in the barracks and in the 'boudoir,' but by no means adapted to the policy of a Government in the present rickety condition. There is another consideration in this most unfortunate correspondence, and that is the questionable right of Santos to dictate to the ex-Dictator. There is something very loose somewhere; and we are left to contemplate the current of events, and whilst pending on their final issue all wish the prospects of Argentina were our own.

MONTEVIDEO.

Whilst the horizon of the Banda Oriental is as threatening as the advent of a 'pampero,' and a catastrophe seems imminent, many turn their anxious gaze on the prosperous sister republic in the emergency of the hour. The Oriental gazes with wonder at your smiling prospects and bitterly envies the fate that has borne you aloft through the vicissitudes of rebellion and political distrust. Argentines lie in the arms of prosperity, in spite of themselves: revolution and bad government have been unable to stifle the progress of the country. Your railways are being speedily extended to their natural terminus: productions increase with a never-falling flow of hardy immigrants: the animosity of party feeling has recovered the natural level of a logical opposition: reorganization in the army and the navy is the restless task of the Government: lands are increasing in value and your deserts are being populated: the army is conquering Patagonia from the Indians: new harbours are being traced: the Government, in fact, is doing its duty, and is proof against all attacks at home and against any aggression from abroad.

The contrast with the Banda Oriental could not be greater: blessed with as fine a climate, as hardy a race, and equal advantages in the shape of liberal Constitution, we lack the vitality which yet rears you on a par with the Great Republic of the North. The country only preserves its independence through the mutual jealousy of powerful neighbours, and its sons are striving hard to ruin all its prospects by fanning the blaze of dissension and letting loose the dogs of civil war: the commerce of the country is stationary, paralyzed in view of the threatening turn of events: the camp is a vast scene of violence and depredation, in several departments; in fact, political existence is at the mercy of the revolutionary articles in the papers. Too much liberty and too much despotism have done their worst: our prospects are as bleak as our past.

Political duty, nevertheless, is not blind to one fact, and that is, the safety your great prosperity engenders. Whilst Argentines are strong and prosperous, the Banda Oriental can afford the luxury of revolutions, but the day Argentine fortunes sink, the Uruguay may very probably cease to be the Brazilian colours will wave to the breeze on the Cerro, and the descendants of the Portuguese will rock the cradle of a future Rio Janeiro in a more favourable zone. This circumstance keeps Orientals awake, and they only foresee in the present approaching events a still greater blow to the finances and credit of the country. This probable mad outbreak will not entail the loss of independence, as both Argentines and Brazilians at present neutralize each other.

To-day more than ever we miss the benedict contact with the Argentine Republic. The history of the last 25 years proves the fallacy of generosity when nations draw up treaties regarding their own interests. Regarding, certainly, should have produced a more definite settlement than that which resulted from that memorable battle. The statesmen then lacked the brains to see into the probabilities of the future, and could not cast the horoscope of the future of the new independent Republic of Uruguay. Reconciliation always comes too late, and it would be too difficult an enterprise to make good the errors which have produced such a very fatal state of affairs. Had Ituzingoa sealed the Union of the Uruguay with the Argentine Republic, La Torre, Flores and Santos would never have predominated; but on the other hand, revolutions would not be at an end in the Argentine Republic, nor would the capital have been fixed in Buenos Ayres. Different situations bring on different results.

MONTEVIDEO.

Whilst the horizon of the Banda Oriental is as threatening as the advent of a 'pampero,' and a catastrophe seems imminent, many turn their anxious gaze on the prosperous sister republic in the emergency of the hour. The Oriental gazes with wonder at your smiling prospects and bitterly envies the fate that has borne you aloft through the vicissitudes of rebellion and political distrust. Argentines lie in the arms of prosperity, in spite of themselves: revolution and bad government have been unable to stifle the progress of the country. Your railways are being speedily extended to their natural terminus: productions increase with a never-falling flow of hardy immigrants: the animosity of party feeling has recovered the natural level of a logical opposition: reorganization in the army and the navy is the restless task of the Government: lands are increasing in value and your deserts are being populated: the army is conquering Patagonia from the Indians: new harbours are being traced: the Government, in fact, is doing its duty, and is proof against all attacks at home and against any aggression from abroad.

The contrast with the Banda Oriental could not be greater: blessed with as fine a climate, as hardy a race, and equal advantages in the shape of liberal Constitution, we lack the vitality which yet rears you on a par with the Great Republic of the North. The country only preserves its independence through the mutual jealousy of powerful neighbours, and its sons are striving hard to ruin all its prospects by fanning the blaze of dissension and letting loose the dogs of civil war: the commerce of the country is stationary, paralyzed in view of the threatening turn of events: the camp is a vast scene of violence and depredation, in several departments; in fact, political existence is at the mercy of the revolutionary articles in the papers. Too much liberty and too much despotism have done their worst: our prospects are as bleak as our past.

Political duty, nevertheless, is not blind to one fact, and that is, the safety your great prosperity engenders. Whilst Argentines are strong and prosperous, the Banda Oriental can afford the luxury of revolutions, but the day Argentine fortunes sink, the Uruguay may very probably cease to be the Brazilian colours will wave to the breeze on the Cerro, and the descendants of the Portuguese will rock the cradle of a future Rio Janeiro in a more favourable zone. This circumstance keeps Orientals awake, and they only foresee in the present approaching events a still greater blow to the finances and credit of the country. This probable mad outbreak will not entail the loss of independence, as both Argentines and Brazilians at present neutralize each other.

To-day more than ever we miss the benedict contact with the Argentine Republic. The history of the last 25 years proves the fallacy of generosity when nations draw up treaties regarding their own interests. Regarding, certainly, should have produced a more definite settlement than that which resulted from that memorable battle. The statesmen then lacked the brains to see into the probabilities of the future, and could not cast the horoscope of the future of the new independent Republic of Uruguay. Reconciliation always comes too late, and it would be too difficult an enterprise to make good the errors which have produced such a very fatal state of affairs. Had Ituzingoa sealed the Union of the Uruguay with the Argentine Republic, La Torre, Flores and Santos would never have predominated; but on the other hand, revolutions would not be at an end in the Argentine Republic, nor would the capital have been fixed in Buenos Ayres. Different situations bring on different results.

MONTEVIDEO.

Whilst the horizon of the Banda Oriental is as threatening as the advent of a 'pampero,' and a catastrophe seems imminent, many turn their anxious gaze on the prosperous sister republic in the emergency of the hour. The Oriental gazes with wonder at your smiling prospects and bitterly envies the fate that has borne you aloft through the vicissitudes of rebellion and political distrust. Argentines lie in the arms of prosperity, in spite of themselves: revolution and bad government have been unable to stifle the progress of the country. Your railways are being speedily extended to their natural terminus: productions increase with a never-falling flow of hardy immigrants: the animosity of party feeling has recovered the natural level of a logical opposition: reorganization in the army and the navy is the restless task of the Government: lands are increasing in value and your deserts are being populated: the army is conquering Patagonia from the Indians: new harbours are being traced: the Government, in fact, is doing its duty, and is proof against all attacks at home and against any aggression from abroad.

The contrast with the Banda Oriental could not be greater: blessed with as fine a climate, as hardy a race, and equal advantages in the shape of liberal Constitution, we lack the vitality which yet rears you on a par with the Great Republic of the North. The country only preserves its independence through the mutual jealousy of powerful neighbours, and its sons are striving hard to ruin all its prospects by fanning the blaze of dissension and letting loose the dogs of civil war: the commerce of the country is stationary, paralyzed in view of the threatening turn of events: the camp is a vast scene of violence and depredation, in several departments; in fact, political existence is at the mercy of the revolutionary articles in the papers. Too much liberty and too much despotism have done their worst: our prospects are as bleak as our past.

Political duty, nevertheless, is not blind to one fact, and that is, the safety your great prosperity engenders. Whilst Argentines are strong and prosperous, the Banda Oriental can afford the luxury of revolutions, but the day Argentine fortunes sink, the Uruguay may very probably cease to be the Brazilian colours will wave to the breeze on the Cerro, and the descendants of the Portuguese will rock the cradle of a future Rio Janeiro in a more favourable zone. This circumstance keeps Orientals awake, and they only foresee in the present approaching events a still greater blow to the finances and credit of the country. This probable mad outbreak will not entail the loss of independence, as both Argentines and Brazilians at present neutralize each other.

To-day more than ever we miss the benedict contact with the Argentine Republic. The history of the last 25 years proves the fallacy of generosity when nations draw up treaties regarding their own interests. Regarding, certainly, should have produced a more definite settlement than that which resulted from that memorable battle. The statesmen then lacked the brains to see into the probabilities of the future, and could not cast the horoscope of the future of the new independent Republic of Uruguay. Reconciliation always comes too late, and it would be too difficult an enterprise to make good the errors which have produced such a very fatal state of affairs. Had Ituzingoa sealed the Union of the Uruguay with the Argentine Republic, La Torre, Flores and Santos would never have predominated; but on the other hand, revolutions would not be at an end in the Argentine Republic, nor would the capital have been fixed in Buenos Ayres. Different situations bring on different results.

MONTEVIDEO.

Whilst the horizon of the Banda Oriental is as threatening as the advent of a 'pampero,' and a catastrophe seems imminent, many turn their anxious gaze on the prosperous sister republic in the emergency of the hour. The Oriental gazes with wonder at your smiling prospects and bitterly envies the fate that has borne you aloft through the vicissitudes of rebellion and political distrust. Argentines lie in the arms of prosperity, in spite of themselves: revolution and bad government have been unable to stifle the progress of the country. Your railways are being speedily extended to their natural terminus: productions increase with a never-falling flow of hardy immigrants: the animosity of party feeling has recovered the natural level of a logical opposition: reorganization in the army and the navy is the restless task of the Government: lands are increasing in value and your deserts are being populated: the army is conquering Patagonia from the Indians: new harbours are being traced: the Government, in fact, is doing its duty, and is proof against all attacks at home and against any aggression from abroad.

The contrast with the Banda Oriental could not be greater: blessed with as fine a climate, as hardy a race, and equal advantages in the shape of liberal Constitution, we lack the vitality which yet rears you on a par with the Great Republic of the North. The country only preserves its independence through the mutual jealousy of powerful neighbours, and its sons are striving hard to ruin all its prospects by fanning the blaze of dissension and letting loose the dogs of civil war: the commerce of the country is stationary, paralyzed in view of the threatening turn of events: the camp is a vast scene of violence and depredation, in several departments; in fact, political existence is at the mercy of the revolutionary articles in the papers. Too much liberty and too much despotism have done their worst: our prospects are as bleak as our past.

Political duty, nevertheless, is not blind to one fact, and that is, the safety your great prosperity engenders. Whilst Argentines are strong and prosperous, the Banda Oriental can afford the luxury of revolutions, but the day Argentine fortunes sink, the Uruguay may very probably cease to be the Brazilian colours will wave to the breeze on the Cerro, and the descendants of the Portuguese will rock the cradle of a future Rio Janeiro in a more favourable zone. This circumstance keeps Orientals awake, and they only foresee in the present approaching events a still greater blow to the finances and credit of the country. This probable mad outbreak will not entail the loss of independence, as both Argentines and Brazilians at present neutralize each other.

To-day more than ever we miss the benedict contact with the Argentine Republic. The history of the last 25 years proves the fallacy of generosity when nations draw up treaties regarding their own interests. Regarding, certainly, should have produced a more definite settlement than that which resulted from that memorable battle. The statesmen then lacked the brains to see into the probabilities of the future, and could not cast the horoscope of the future of the new independent Republic of Uruguay. Reconciliation always comes too late, and it would be too difficult an enterprise to make good the errors which have produced such a very fatal state of affairs. Had Ituzingoa sealed the Union of the Uruguay with the Argentine Republic, La Torre, Flores and Santos would never have predominated; but on the other hand, revolutions would not be at an end in the Argentine Republic, nor would the capital have been fixed in Buenos Ayres. Different situations bring on different results.

The ladies and gentlemen who acted in the Olofin Theatre on Wednesday night will be entertained this evening by General Osborne, United States Minister and Mr. W. Martin, at a 'tertulia' at their residence 136 Calle Lavalle. A graceful and well deserved compliment.

We are asked to make enquiries about Mr Henry M Kenworthy, who has been in Buenos Aires 24 years. Should this meet his eye, he is requested to write to his brother at the old address in England; or should any of our subscribers know anything about him, we shall feel greatly obliged for some information.

The Rev. Kenelm Vaughan will preach at San Francisco church on Sunday after the Mass at 1 o'clock.

To-morrow will be the anniversary of Shakespeare's birth, and the members of the English Literary Society have prepared for themselves an appropriate treat on the occasion in the shape of three papers on the Monarch of Letters, which will be read by Mr William Martin, Prof. Pressinger and Prof. Ryan. The treat, however, is for members only.

On Sunday next the Academia Literaria del Plata will hold a session at the San Salvador College, when those present will have the pleasure of hearing our eloquent friend Don Santiago Estrada read an address.

The National started the city with rockets on Wednesday night, just as the Britishers in the city were pouring into the Olofin Theatre. The bulletin that followed the rockets (not skywards, but about town) was a decided 'sell,' even to the most ardent politicians, as it was only a proclamation from President Vidal, which stated, at quite unnecessary length, that he was not a bit afraid of his Minister of War, Col. Santos, in fact, had every confidence in him, and regarded him as a man and a brother, if not a bosom friend. We fear our correspondent Voltaire is right in considering President Vidal too mild a mannered man for his post.

With deep regret we announce the death of Mrs Zimmermann, a lady in the morning of life, and widely known and esteemed in our society; we tender to her sorrowing husband every expression of sympathy at his deep affliction. It appears that the deceased lady had been suffering for some time back from acute neuralgia, but yesterday was much better and received many visits from her friends, but at a late hour on Wednesday, she felt a sudden blindness, asked for a drink of water, and expired almost instantaneously.

We also regret to announce the death of Mrs Thomas Kenny, the beloved wife of Mr Kenny, the well-known wool broker; and yesterday Dr Laussen left town for Lobos to attend Mrs J. Moore, who is in a most critical state.

Call Alpha Vox Telephone line yesterday to the Catalinas Mole. Go ahead, Captain.

There was an immense crowd at Baltar and Quesada's yesterday, at the sale of Rambouillet, and other stock. Good prices were paid.

Advices from Ohubut state that there is a brigantine with the Brazilian flag knocking about in seal fishing, contrary to Act of Congress. A gunboat is wanted down there, but as yet there is

London and

London,

Montevideo
and Authorized Capital
Subscribed Capital
Reserve Fund...

Offices in CORNER OF REG.

Current Accounts
Firms and private Customers have approved Bills discount
upon Negotiable Bills
Coupons, &c., for Conventional Currencies.
The Bank receives for fixed periods, on withdrawal, interest
by the market value finding any change in
is the principal daily
Letters of Credit
abroad.

Letters of Credit
purpose of purchase
United States, &c.
accredited on supply
Parties wishing River Plate, can do
of the Bank's order
N. 52 MORGARTE
issued and Purchased And all the ENGLAND, SCOT
Antwerp
Amsterdam

—

Berlin
Bremen
Cologne
Hamburg
Hess
Milhouse
Strasbourg

Bayonne Bordeaux
Brest
Chambéry
Dijon
Havre
Lille
Lyons Marseilles
Nantes
Nice
Orléans
Paris
Rouen
Toulouse
Toulon
Tunis
And on many o
towns in France

—

Bale Bernes
Genève
Lucerne
Neuchâtel
Vevey
Zurich
And on other to in Switzerland

—

Lisbon
Oporto
Las Palmas (Ca Islands),
Santa Cruz de T
rife.

—

Baltimore

Boston
New York
Philadelphia

Fernambuco
Rio Janeiro
Santos

London &

CALLE

(Corner of Q
The riches of in by the Bank will notice: surpasse

MONEY

On deposits in rents Be subject to of withdrawal
On to for 90.

days fixed
In account

For Discounts on current in go
Buenos Ayres, Bank
Bills of Exchange
all its Branches
Advances made
EDU
80—Call
Lloyd Navegac
TIM
Buenos Ai Railway
TRIDEN
On and fro
next, the stea

DIANA, ex-Company in Traffic between sario y Santiago until further MONDAYS, and intermediate TUESDAYS, sario and intermediate SIX FIVE EX-
sario, Santa Fe
THURSDAYS
Rosario and inter-
SATURDAYS
Rosario and inter-
The Train Central Passengers
cellent accom-and convenient
The Company
the Central At-Railways for the gers, goods and stations on the
The Agency
the steamers and to deliver take out the in-
For further

N.B.—C
will be re
Railway C Retiro fro week day

